My name is Kelvin Schapansky and I have lived in the Strasbourg area since 1984. I am very proud to call it my home.

I farmed in the area and recently retired in 2018. I also owned a local business, Diger's Service, from 2006-2011. As a businessman, I realize the importance of supporting your local businesses and the important role that these businesses play in the community.

I have served and continue to serve on many different boards in town including Affinity Credit Union, Strasbourg Alliance Church, and the local food grains grow project.

I have had the privilege of serving on the Town of Strasbourg council as a councilor for four years and now as the mayor for the last four years. I am proud of what has been accomplished in our town during that time and am looking forward to using my role as mayor to ensure that our town continues to grow and progress in the future.
